The William Blair group is committed to acting according to the highest standards of ethical behaviour in our business activities and to ensuring that there are no instances of modern slavery or human trafficking in any part of our operations or supply chain. We seek to work with suppliers who meet the same strict standards and who share our values.
Risk Assessment and Policies

William Blair is committed to upholding and promoting human rights in the conduct of our business. We operate a Code of Business Conduct which outlines the rules to which we hold ourselves accountable; namely, the highest standards of honesty, integrity and professionalism. Our employees are required to adhere to the code in every transaction and in every business relationship. Employees have access to the whistle-blowing procedures to report or raise any concerns, warnings, or suspected unethical behaviour including in respect of slavery or human trafficking. We are committed to respecting the human rights of our employees though a number of related policies and procedures, such as our dedication to build an inclusive workplace thought a diversity of skills, capabilities and experiences. We aim to provide a rewarding work environment in which people are valued and respected.

We recognise our responsibility to ensure that our suppliers have fair and ethical labour practices. William Blair has a limited supply chain, given the nature of our business. The vast majority of William Blair’s suppliers are UK-based professional service firms, office space providers, office supplies providers, financial and related data suppliers, recruitment agents and telecommunications hardware and software providers. We therefore consider that the risk of modern slavery and human trafficking within our supply chain is low but nevertheless shall keep this under review on a periodic basis.

Awareness

Ongoing Commitment

We will continue to review the steps we are taking to combat modern slavery and human trafficking in our business and supply chains including training for areas where procurement or supply chains exist. We will make improvements to our policies and practices necessary to eradicate modern slavery and human trafficking from our business and our supply chains.

This statement is made voluntarily in accordance with Section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and has been signed by Arthur Simon on behalf of the Board of Directors.
